Jan Cote Missing Schools Returning to Sites Today

The case of Alberta's two missing rural schools neared a conclusion today.

Provincial government authorities said the two schools—hauled from their original sites five miles away to a church parish—are being returned today.

The work is being done by residents of the district.

Last week RCMP were ordered to the Glouvilleville district, in the High Prairie school division, to locate the schools. The two one-room frame schools were found on grounds of a Roman Catholic parish in the Jan Cote district, about five miles from their original site.

Provincial authorities said the schools are being moved back today by residents of the district, and will be ready for school opening tomorrow.

The government will not lay charges in connection with the removal of the schools. It was stated, "It will be the responsibility of the High Prairie school division to make if damage charges are to be laid," a government spokesman said.

Some Split Shifts Back

Revelation of the Alberta Labor Act hours of work provisions now exempts employees in National parks from split shift restrictions.

A new order by the board of industrial relations, announced in the Alberta Gazette today, will permit split shift regulations to be suspended between June 1 and Sept. 30 for employees in National park areas of the province.

A similar order provides that split shift restrictions are modified for employees of the trucking industry. Split shifts may now be worked up to 50 hours a week where employers furnish sleeping accommodation for employees between shifts.

Band and stock salesmen are exempted from restrictions governing holidays with pay, according to another order approved by the board.

British American Ties Up With Redwater Pipe

British American Oil Company is the second shipper to move crude oil over the Interprovincial Pipeline into Edmonton from the Redwater field.

Ties with the pipe line was completed over the week-end, according to Interprovincial Pipeline officials.

Previously, the Imperial Oil company was the only company hooked up with the pipe line, but with the completion of two miles of 16 inch pipe the British American company is now in the line and shipping direct to Edmonton.

The tanks in Edmonton must be filled by the end of October ready for opening of the pipe line to the head of the lakes.

Building Permits Set Two Records

New Marks Established For August and Year to Date

Edmonton's booming construction industry has racked up two new all-time records.

August building permits reached a total value of $5,274,993, or $918,265 ahead of the $4,356,728 recorded in August last year.

That brought the 1950 total to $27,846,186—a healthy $2,344,405 up on 1949's first eight months figure of $25,501,781.

Number of August permits was down from 817 last year to 613.

During August this year, builders were granted permits for 249 homes worth $2,026,800.

In the same month last year, permits were issued for 451 homes worth $2,096,130.

Four Escape When Auto Overturns

Four Edmonton young people escaped serious injury last night when their automobile went out of control on the Jasper highway, careened off the road and overturned in a pile of rocks.

In Jasper hospital with minor injuries are Doreen Mittlestadt, Joe Serota, Ben McLaurey and Bill Metshak, all of Edmonton.

The accident occurred eight miles east of Jasper National Park gate, where the road curves at Johnson's corner.

Police Causes Three Deaths

Three deaths have occurred in Alberta this season as a result of the current police outbreak.

Provincial health authorities today reported the death of an eight-year-old Gem boy, victim of the disease. One person died earlier at Red Deer, and a six-year-old girl died at Camrose.

Total number of cases in the province reported to date is 66.

10 FINED ON LIQUOR COUNTS

A forty-minute police roundup near a Jasper Place dance hall Saturday night brought 10 Edmonton men to Police Court today on liquor charges.

All pleaded guilty to illegal possession of liquor and paid a total of $250 in fines. Police rounded them up from 10:30 p.m. to 11 p.m. around the hall.

Pools Close For Winter

Summer's over.

Parks department officials last night put padlocks on the two outdoor swimming pools operated by the city, ending what appears to be their most successful year to date.

Superintendent A. G. Patterson said today that when official figures are tallied, they will show new records for 1950.

Pools will be drained and covered for winter. Gas stoves will be installed to keep frost from damaging the cement walls.

Plans Made For Rodeo

Truck drivers from Western Air Command and North West Air Command are getting ready for the big show—the Dominion Truck rodeo at Toronto on Oct. 23 and 24.

Twenty-one drivers from the night padlocks on the two outdoor swimming pools operated by the city, ending what appears to be their most successful year to date.

Holowach Again Wins Provincial Title In Chess

The provincial chess championship was won yesterday for the fifth year in succession by Walter Holowach of 10805-108 street Edmonton.

This feat has been performed without the loss of a single match. The closest Holowach came to defeat was during the present tournament, when he had a draw in one game.

Edmonton players swept the first four places. The winners were: 1. Walter Holowach, 2. J. A. Roseman, 3. C. H. Erickson, 4. F. B. Burfield and in fifth place L. Barra of Calgary.

The tournament was sponsored by the Edmonton Chess Club and a banquet was held at the Royal George to honor the winners.

Early Shooting Ok'd In North

Crop damage from wild ducks in the High Prairie district of Northern Alberta has resulted in the provincial game branch issuing special permits for farmers to shoot the birds on their property.

Migratory bird hunting season will open Sept. 18, but meanwhile farmers who receive special permits from the game branch will be allowed to shoot birds which are destroying their crops.

Premier Returns

Premier E. C. Manning is back from the game branch will be allowed to shoot birds which are destroying their crops.

Football Tickets Listed In Week-End Thefts

The saddest sports fan in Edmonton Monday was Donald Tak, 10801-16 street.

He reported to police he lost his wallet containing five tickets to the Labor Day football game at Citee Stadium.

In other week-end thefts and break-ins, busy thieves stole practically everything from a soap-box buggy to a jewel-box. Owner of the soap-box buggy, 12-year-old Richard Nichols, 1133-100 street, found his pride-and-joy gone when he returned to it in parking place west of McDougall hill after Monday's soap box derby.

The jewel-box, valued at $40 and containing $50 worth of costume jewelry, was stolen from the home of Cecil Howatt, 1138-503 avenue, Saturday night.

Police are looking for an elderly man who took advantage of an Edmonton woman's forgetfulness to take her wallet when she left it in 12 first.

Drivers' Tests Again

The Alberta government has played around so much and so long with the idea of drivers' tests that it seems odd it doesn't put the plan into full operation on a compulsory basis.

For perhaps the fourth or fifth time it has been announced that the government is considering putting these tests to all new drivers and to those who have been convicted of traffic offences.

At the same time it is announced that the Highway Traffic Board, a provincial institution, has made traffic tests available to drivers who wish to take them voluntarily.

The Board points out that the "service has been devised to demonstrate effects of physical deficiencies of which motorists themselves might be unaware."

These physical aptitude tests employ five different machines.

Now the anomaly of the government's position in this matter is this: "Drivers' tests must be considered of high value if money has been spent on the equipment to give them.

But if they are of high value if given on a voluntary basis, why would they not be of even greater value if given on a compulsory basis which would reach at least 500 times as many drivers?

Again, drivers' tests are apparently considered of value if they are given to new drivers and drivers with traffic convictions.

Why should they not be of even greater value if given to everybody, particularly in view of the fact that a government agency admits that a driver may be quite "unaware" of his ineptness?

The government inferentially admits that driving tests are good.

Why then, are they not good enough to be imposed upon every driver in the province?

The weakness in voluntary tests is that drivers who know themselves to be inadequate shun them like the plague.

Voluntary tests, then, fall to weed out the drivers who are most dangerous.

The value of drivers' tests is no longer a matter of experiment. It is an established fact in every place where they have been tried.

During leisure time I have been reading the scriptures and the Bible, and I am struck by the fact that the diet of the ancients was very different from the diet of the present.

Both of these authorities have proved in fact the truth of the foretold barbarism in the past and some of which have materialized in our own times and, by recent daily evils, are continuing to come to fruition now.

The only difference between the Bible and the findings in the Pyramid is that the latter has given specific dates for happenings in the past, and not so long past at that; the beginning and ending of the World War I, Allenby's entry into Jerusalem, and many other events.

My reference to the U.S. being a mandate for the art of war, and giving good advice instead of fighting can be answered by having you check reliable records (if any) that you might have, and noting the war situation has been the same in the history of the world.

As for post war rehabilitation in the ravaged countries and the present situation, I think the situation, I think our financial aid has been on a par with the efforts of antiquity.

These facts and fashions are always with us.

Street Paving Done the Hard Way

In there any reason under heaven why sidewalk paving and patching in business areas should not be done at night so that minimum interruption may be caused to business?

These are typical instances:

A few weeks ago, new kerbs and sidewalk were put in on the north side of Jasper avenue between 99 and 100 streets.

For several days, pedestrians had to climb over shaky planks or take to the roadway where traffic is heavy and notably erratic. Shopkeepers were seriously inconvenienced.

And no one could understand why the city did not put on a sufficiently large night crew so that the entire operation could have been completed overnight.

Last week a somewhat similar operation was underway on the south side of 101 street between Jasper and 101A avenues.

This time it was not paving but asphalt patching.

Or is the sidewalk to be plastered with the material that stuck to boots and shoes to be tracked into stores or ground into home carpets.

A small roller was blithely shoving pedestrians into the streets.

And once again adjacent stores must have suffered a loss of business because people don't like to wade through soft asphalt to buy things.

Of course the shopkeepers would not complain too much because sidewalk pot holes on this section have been notorious almost since Indian days. Every rainfall of consequence would create a series of miniature lakes which pedestrians could sink to the ankles.

Almost anything was better than that. But how much simpler it would have been for evening operations.

Naturally it would have cost a little more to pay overtime for night work.

But surely the public's convenience is worth something.

Or is the city's convenience taken into account at all at the civic clock?

Itinerating National Exhibition

The government of Alberta has usually had an exhibit at the Toronto fair. This year the Alberta exhibit is being shown at the Vancouver fair. A spokesman for the government points out that what Alberta would like to see would be a provincial exhibit from every province.

This time it was not paving but asphalt patching.

Or is the sidewalk to be plastered with the material that stuck to boots and shoes to be tracked into stores or ground into home carpets.

Odd Tale of the Parson Who Adores Water Lilies

The story comes over the news wires from England of the Kentish parson who does not like to be disturbed.

I don't mean that this rector goes out and mows at his water lilies and writes about them.

On the contrary, this rector, who is named, by the way, is the Reverend W. M. Falloon, it is said, to you, this rector's affection for water lilies is expressed in a much more direct and forthright way.

He says that, the Reverend Mr. Falloon goes out every morning to his lily pond, catches a lily from his water lily pond, and between two slices of bread and butter he eats it.

The Reverend Mr. Falloon has disclosed this fact at a party given in celebration of his 75th birthday.

It seems that he devoured his water lily 18 years ago and liked it so well that he has been doing it every morning since.

I don't know why the story reminds me of Ferdinand the Bull. But it does.

Stars A Fad

New I can find nothing reprehensible about a person munching water lilies.

The thought may be a trifle strange, at first, but if you pursue the thought, I assure you you will get used to it.

Certainly there is nothing in the practice that derogates from the Reverend Mr. Falloon's orthodoxy.

None of the creeds, not even the restrictive terms of the Athanasian Creed, specifically forbids a clerk to hold orders to guala Canna Nymphomane.

U.K. Tools Won't Aid Soviet: Attlee

Dismisses Churchill Charges Nation Helps Russ Arm

LONDON, Sept. 5.—(AP)—Britain will not allow her sales of machine tools to Russia "to damage essential defence needs," Prime Minister Attlee declared Saturday night.

Attlee, in a country-wide radio firestorm chat, dismissed in less than 300 words charges made a week ago by Winston Churchill that British tools are helping build Russian arms and that exported tools sent to the Soviets are the same type as needed in British tank factories.

Attlee hinted, however, that machine tools have strategic importance may still be going to Russia under contract signed more than 15 years ago. But nowhere in his speech did he say that the tools deliveries would be halted.

"Eighteen months ago we took steps to insure that equipment and tools which are regarded as of key importance for strategic purposes should not be exported except in the case of contract already concluded before that date..." he said.

A great deal of his speech was devoted to an attack on Churchill's political methods. Churchill, leader of the big Conservative minority in parliament, had accused Attlee's government of lack of foresight and of weakness in defence policy.

CHURCHILL "SULLY" Churchill said "sully."

"I should describe him as dictatorial," Attlee said.

Attlee suggested the way is still open for Russia and the west to settle the increasingly tense cold war.

"The Russian leaders talk a great deal about peace but their actions cause world wide anxiety," he said. "They could, if they would, lift the cloud of apprehension which hangs over all."

the peoples of the world, including their own.

"They know quite well that we are prepared at any time to discuss with them fully all differences. It is not a question of method or of place or of persons. All that is required is the will."

Then, talking directly to the Russian people, he declared:

"We do not seek to interfere with the internal affairs of Russia. If the Russians believe their system is the best, let them continue to work it out in their own country. If it is good, let us all see the results."

Turning to an attack against Churchill, Attlee said:

"For the last 20 years, Mr. Churchill seems to me to have regarded parliament mainly as a place where he makes speeches. He is seldom present, except when he is to make a speech. He comes down like a prince, delivers his oration and then, except for an occasional appearance at question time, is seen no more until the next occasion."

Churchill blamed Attlee for being slow in sending British forces to Korea but Attlee said "we were told that a balanced force, such as we offered, even though it would necessarily arrive later, would be more useful... There was no middle or hesitation. Mr. Churchill knows this quite well."

It Could Happen

A story is going the rounds that certain members of the Eskimo football executive have taken the precaution of arranging for rooms in a prominent hotel—just in case.

Just in case means just in case Eskimos win the west—as the saying is—and get to travel east, come December with its chill winds, in search of the Grey Cup.

A month ago—two weeks ago even—the most people would have suggested that those executives try on the nearest padded belt for size. Not now, though, not after the way Ansis Stuker's Grid-Wide Kids pushed the no longer mighty Calgary Stampede around last night at Clarke Stadium.

That 18-8 whacking handed Les Lear's Cowboys in what comes close to being a Pier 39 brawl in the latter stages, was Ekas' second such success in 48 hours.

At Calgary Saturday night, while Lindy (The Arm) Berry had a picnic at the expense of Stampas pass defense (what, there was of it), Ekas towed the Canadian champs of 1948 by 19-13.

A scant two weeks back the locals hung a haymaker on the current Grey cup kings, Montreal Alouettes. In other words Eskimos were dangling at their belts the scalps of the last two east-west champions.

Anybody still can't a room at the Royal York, say, might not prove mighty handy a couple of months hence?

Those who saw Ekas hamstringing Stampas at Mowata Stadium Saturday night, then turned up while the teams did it all over again last night, say Ekas were more impressive in their Cowtown conquest.

Stuker, for one, saw little reason to enjune over his team's showing last night. "We played one of our poorest games," he insisted. "We'll be lot better than that next time out."

Still most of the 9,000 or so in the cheap-seats or elsewhere weren't inclined to be overly critical. At the finish they were remembering those two field goals by coach Stuker early in the contest.

Berry, while not as sensational as at Calgary where he racked up close to a quarter of a mile through the air, nevertheless proved the bucks' sparkplug.

Berry to Morrie (The Smatich) Berry, Berry to Patfrat, Berry to Frather, Berry to Doug (Crazy-Legs) Pyzer. It didn't matter who the intended receiver was, the boy from Wichita Falls connected more often than he missed.

This the paying customers realized, even if many of them weren't quite certain just how he does it.

Frank Hickey and Bob Pafrat were being hailed as the Touchdown Twins. Earl Valiquetas tackling had been savage as a crime of passion.

The more discerning had a word of praise, too, for sophomore Don Simon, whose two successive runs in the third quarter, totalling 26 yards or so, had rocked Stampas back on their high heels at a time when "Rattler" Matheson and friends were looking something like the Calgary squad of the past two seasons, anyway.

Feelings ran high towards the end of the encounter. Stampede, a grid dynasty that seems to be dying on its feet, and one that sorely misses such as Paul Rowe, Pete Thodous and Rod Pangloss, was stuck, didn't take kindly to their fourth straight defeat.

Coach Les Lear may get the Stampas primed for one more supreme effort. Chances are he won't though, capable as he is.

In the meantime there are those hotel reservations to keep in mind.

VILLETARD WINNER

IN MODEL "T" DERBY

CALGARY, Sept. 5.—(CP)—Tom Villetard, of Edmonton, captured his third Lion's club model "T" trophy at Victoria park race track here yesterday.

The top driver is the only three-time winner of the annual class and now has permanent ownership of the Mactin trophy.

More than 13,000 persons cheered Villetard over the 15-mile final in which he took an early lead and was never seriously threatened by the other eight finalists.

Sixteen cars skidded around 75 thrill-packed laps. In second place was Harry Brown, of Edmonton, and in third spot was Stan Reynolds of Wetaskiwin.

Mustangs Get Break To Edge South Side

SPECIAL TO THE BULLETIN
CALGARY, Sept. 5.—Edmonton South Sides were the victims of some loose officiating here Sunday as they lost an Alberta Junior Football league game to Calgary Mustangs by 5-2.

For late in the fourth quarter, the Mustangs pounced to a touchdown after being buried deep in their own zone. They marched to payback through the effect of a 60-yard forward pass which Mustangs' Bob Robinson caught and carried to the Edmonton 10-yard line.

However, Edmonton was the last team on the field at the time. But South Side protests to that effect were overruled by field referee Les Ferguson and the play stood.

Mustangs scrambled to a touchdown following the snail. Up to that point the Calgarys had been leading 3-0.

The South Siders went about 2-0 in the third quarter on a safety touchdown. They nearly got it in the fourth when Jim Pritchard forced a 40-yard run before being blocked by the last-minute defender on the Calgary 13.

Some 3,000 fans witnessed the game which produced the first Mustang win of the season.

BOBBY BACON TAKES ON EX-CHAMP

Local milt product Bobby Bacon gets his big chance when he tackles Jackie Turner, former Canadian bantamweight champion, in the semi-final bout on promoter Jack Barry's first card in the stock pavilion tomorrow night.

If Bacon, who turned professional less than a year ago, plays by Turner's bill definitely be on his way up the fight ladder.

Proctor Harold clashed with George Dunn in a rematch in the main event. Dunn scored a close win over Harold on the occasion of their first meeting, three weeks back. Four other bouts round out the card.

LOS ANGELES.—U.S. amateur boxing world title has been won two or more times by 13 players.

WINS 100-MILER

Purdy Paces Pedal-Pushers

By Garth Hopkins
Jim Purdy, popular member of the Silver Hawks Cycle club, yesterday proved the class of the field in the annual 100-mile bike race from Red Deer to Edmonton.

Purdy put on a terrific burst of speed over the last half-mile, to finish one-fifth of a second ahead of Bill Hastings, also of Edmonton.

Pedal-pusher Purdy wheeled off the line of 5 hours, 17 1/2 minutes. The riders were out of the start throughout and this, combined with a hot sun, forced 10 of the 24 entrants to drop out.

Linkie Moore, last year's winner, dropped out at Hobbema. Bob Gibbs, lone British Columbia entry, had given it up as a bad job just south of Ponoka.

Sandy Peden, Edmonton in the junior event, coming in just second behind Hastings. Doug Arnott of Calgary placed second in the juniors.

Another Calgary entry, Fritz Anderson, finished fourth in the senior event and Paul Smith, Edmonton, placed third.

George Christmas, official in charge and also former racer for the Silver Hawks club, presented the trophies.

The R. B. Bennett trophy went to Jim Purdy for his first place effort. Bill Hastings topped the United Cycle and Motor trophy for class "B" riders, and junior-winner Sandy Peden was presented with the Edmonton Bulletin trophy.

Medals were presented to others who placed.

Holt Renfrew Styles Shown Today For Hundreds of Edmonton Women

Pendulum of fashion swings to mid-Victorian richness of fabric and 1950 simplicity of silhouette.

And models featured in the fall opening show at Holt Renfrew today paraded lustrous velvets, gleaming satins, shadow lace and a host of color-pleasing corduroys, velveteens, wool jerseys, worsted and rough-textured fabrics.

Color dominated the fashion scene with tangerine, charcoal grey, hickory brown, khaki and autumn-tinted shades of gold, russet, rust and tan.

With fabric and color flair played to feminine flattery, tailoring, design, detail is kept deceptively simple.

Trio of Parisian originals, imported specially for the show, listed the fashion trend toward shorter skirts.

London imports in suits and tailored coats continued the theme in a modified way.

MANGONE SHOWN

Phillip Mangone's beautiful fabrics and maintaining perfection of design was illustrated in a three-piece ensemble of authentic Italian and smoky black, worn by Mrs. J. C. Scott. Full length coat is plaid lined and collar and front open to show the belted suit within.

Mrs. Howard Emery paraded in a pale, rough-textured tweed coat of Magpie design for Miss Kathleen who is leaving the Y.

Miss Stuckie, director of the department for four years, will take a course in recreational therapy.

Teen work for two years and is intending to teach this year.

Rev. W. D. McQuibbin, president of the board of directors, presented gifts of the girls and introduced Miss Louisa, the blue-eyed girl who directs the club department, and Miss Helen Reid who will do Y Teen work.

1,337 more children received dental care that prevented serious loss of teeth or serious dental troubles later in life.

... The number of children with no defects—increased by 200%!

Uncle Wiggily's Bedtime Story

The rabbit gentleman with the pink, twinkling nose had hopped away from his hollow stump-bungalow to go look for an adventure. Then suddenly, a voice called: "Wait for me, Wiggily. I am your cousin, Junior. I have jumped a long way from my home in Green Tree Valley to come and visit you."

All at once a blue Jay in a tux over Uncle Wiggily's head, began to scream:

"Hail! Hail! Hail!"

"What's the matter, Mr. Blue Jay?" asked Uncle Wiggily. He knew that these beautiful but noisy birds, often now danger in the woods and fields, before other birds or animals knew about the danger. The blue Jay would scream and warn his friends. So this blue Jay called loudly once more:

"Hail! Hail! Hail!"

"What's the matter, Mr. Blue Jay?" asked Uncle Wiggily again. "Do you see any danger?"

"I am not sure," answered the beautiful bird, "but I heard someone say he was your cousin, Junior. Do you see him?"

"No, I don't see any Cousin Junior," answered Uncle Wiggily to the blue Jay. "He says he is tired and is leaning under a burdock tree."

"Perhaps he is," yelled the bird. "But you never can be sure. This might be the fox or trick or you, Uncle Wiggily."

"Oh, I think not, Mr. Blue Jay," replied the rabbit gentleman. "The fox and wolf as well as the bobbie the bob cat, would play tricks on me. But now they are my friends."

"I'm coming, I am tired now," said the voice. Rolyoly an old rabbit-rider who was drowned last spring.

Beware Communists In Ranks, TUC Warned

BRIGHTON, England, Sept. 5.—(AP)—Prime Minister Attlee warned the 8,000,000-member Trades Union Congress today to beware of Communists in its ranks.

Attlee called upon the union delegates at their annual conference for "constant watchfulness" against followers of the Russian line. He added:

"To defeat the fanaticism of the Communists, we need in every member of the great labor movement a constant realization of the ideal for which we stand, the constant determination by every individual to do his or her utmost to build this kind of society we want."

Non-Stop Flight Of Naval Planes Meets Trouble

ATLANTA, Ga., Sept. 5.—(CP)—Five of six U.S. naval reserve planes crashed over here last night. None of the pilots was injured.

The planes were flying non-stop from Columbus, O., to Pensacola, Fla., when they ran into bad weather and the squadron leader decided to bring the flight into the Atlanta airport.

The first plane landed and blew a tire. It continued on the runway with the second plane. A third plane crashed into a fire truck. The fourth plane nosed over.

When the fifth plane ran out of gas, the pilot parachuted safely. The squadron leader landed safely at a nearby air force base.

The Communists will hold some high office in British unions although the TUC purged the Reds from its executive council about a year ago. Since then it has been trying to oust them from union posts.

Attlee said the Communist attack on Korea had necessitated that Britain undertake her new three-year, £2,400,000,000 defense program if the United States will help foot the bill.

He repeated his frequent warning that the defense program would mean sacrifices.

Attlee again acknowledged the postwar aid received by Britain from Canada and the United States.

Defence of North Atlantic Area May Be Increased

OTTAWA, Sept. 5.—(CP)—External Affairs Minister Pearson said yesterday that Canada's military role in the defence of the north Atlantic area may be increased because of Korea. But he said he couldn't elaborate because the subject is now under negotiation.

He threw out that hint in a rebuttal to progress-conservative attacks on the scope and speed of Canada's Korean effort, and on the government's use of some $15,000,000 voted for defence since the war.

Canada may be proud of her Korean effort, he said, speaking in a three-hour speech that saw the number of Quebec members who openly have opposed the dispatch of Canada's special army force to Korea rise to three. Two others have backed the work.

THREE OPPOSED

The three opponents are Henri Courtemanche (PC-Labelle), P. E. Gagnon (Ind.-Chicoutimi) and Dr. Raoul Poirier (Ind.-Beauport). Mr. Courtemanche's stand contrasted with that of his party, which has generally taken the line that Canada's Korean effort has been too small and too late.

Leon Balcer (PC-Trois-Rivières) and Maurice Boivin (L.-Montreal-Yamaska) supported the raising and dispatch of the force.

The opponents said it raises the prospect of conscription and of Canada's involvement in another world war.

Mr. Pearson's second appearance in the three-hour debate, which may end today, was engendered after criticism by John Diefenbaker (PC-Lake Centre) and Howard Green (PC-Vancouver-Quebec) on defence matters and by Stanley

BEHIND SCENES and one of chief Korean advisers to the North Korean military leaders is believed to be Col. Gen. Terence Sitkovsky, whose headquarters is near Communist capital of Pyongyang. Observers believe much of the Red's early success in the Korean fighting was due to Sitkovsky's advice.

General Dies

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—(AP)—Brig.-Gen. Jefferson Randolph Kean, retired United States army officer who was the great-grandfather of Thomas Jefferson, died yesterday at the age of 90.

REPORT CANADA MAY EXTEND DRAFT TIME

LONDON, Sept. 5.—(Reuters)—The possibility that Canada might extend the length of military service by members of its armed forces, as other countries have done, was suggested last night by Charles Spottford, chairman of the Atlantic pact deputies group.

Following adjournment of the group, Spottford said the definite undersizing of the Atlantic pact powers still is in the process of developing.

Asked whether he was referring to recent decisions by Britain, France and Belgium to extend military service, he said: "Yes, that's what I had in mind; there may be an announcement coming from Canada, too."

(In Ottawa, defence Minister Claxton declined comment in Spottford's remarks. At present Canadians sign up for three years in the permanent army and for five years in the RCAP and the navy.)

Korea May Change Canadians' Role

Defence of North Atlantic Area May Be Increased

Must Build Fast

1. If the world can maintain peace during the next 15 months "we may then have time to settle our problems even with those people behind the iron curtain." But western strength must be built fast.

2. If the world's special force doesn't go to Korea, it will go somewhere else. Canada, in forming it, is starting "something important," a move to give the United Nations force to combat new Korea. This step would probably be discussed by the U.N. general assembly this month.

3. Between the line Canada was asked July 19 to send troops and her Aug. 7 decision to do so, the government was busy probing such matters as the use for items and United States policy towards an extension of the Korean war to Formosa and China.

4. It would be unwise to seek a military arrangement with Spain or to launch a Pacific pact.

5. Canada will do her share in building up underdeveloped areas, but it is discouraging to see some of those areas need aid spending half of their budgets on defence. He named no countries when he said this.

DETROIT FROM TRUTH

Mr. Diefenbaker charged that Mr. Pearson and other ministers have "deserted from the truth" and said Canadians would be willing to pay more taxes for defence if they were given facts to show their money was being spent efficiently and effectively.

He proposed establishing some body such as the Hoover Commission which had probed U.S. government methods of spending.

An effective use of the combined investigation act could help fight inflation.

A dominion-provincial commission should be established at once to guide development of those natural resources needed for war. The reserve army's effectiveness should be aided by feeding its members.

Taxes Hit Hard At Comedian

George Formby

MONTREAL, Sept. 5.—(UPI)—Comedian George Formby, who opens a trans-Canada tour here Saturday, will earn more than $100,000 on the trip, but he'll be lucky to keep $20,000 for himself.

Officials here sponsoring the tour said England's top stage star will pay the rest of it in taxes to Sir Stafford Cripps, British Chancellor of the exchequer.

Formby's seven-week trip this fall follows close on the first Formby show, which toured the country earlier this year.

Blast Starts Fire

POZA RICA, Mexico, Sept. 5.—(AP)—Fire started by an exploding stove today burned out two down-town blocks of this oilwell and refinery center. Damage was estimated at 4,500,000 pesos ($172,000).
